First Education

In Washington it's reliably reported that a federal fair employment practices law is out of the question. In this session of congress. Hearings will be held on bills to forbid racial and religious discrimination in employment, but their chances of passage are slim. It seems to have dawned on many legislators that laws which aren't preceded by education—laws whose acceptance by the public hasn't been provided for in advance—are always questionable. Certainly it has dawned on many of them that to put the burden of fair employment practices on employers, when in fact the problem is shared with employees, is evasion of the issue.

There is no way to legislate prejudice out of existence. But there is a way to get rid of it by everyday proof that prejudice is foolish. That is being done in many parts of the country. It's being done by many employers who would find it much harder to do if compelled to stay within the letter of laws that have not been preceded by enough education to make them enforceable.

Ohio would be well advised to stick with education and persuasion for a few more years, before risking compulsion. The fair employment practices bill passed by the Ohio senate, providing for the former approach, is preferable to the bill passed by the house of representatives. The compromise measure should favor education, stay clear of compulsion.

For Example

The German constitutional convention at Bonn has produced a charter of self-government for a new republic. It will be rushed through the German state legislatures to beat the deadline of the four-power conference, beginning May 23.

This is a momentous experiment in political psychology. Germans know no more about self-government than a pig knows about Christmas. On the contrary, they have shown an amazing aptitude for goose-stepping. This, combined with their skill in the industrial arts, has made them ideal for military exploitation.

The United States, Great Britain and France, all with long experience in self-government, honestly believe that the Germans would be better off if they too learned the trick. They believed it after World War I, but the Germans turned hopelessly to Adolf Hitler. They are believing it again after World War II, and hoping the Germans won't turn to some new Fuehrer who will do their thinking for them and ultimately lead them to slaughter.

It's a gamble, especially in view of the strange circumstances under which Germans now are being urged to follow the Democratic example. France is a nation in chaos. Britain is rushing headlong into state socialism. The United States is learning about the political handicap of a chief executive elected by a minority of the voters. Germans urged to adopt self-government must be warned simultaneously that it's a long hard road to hoe. For people who have found it easier to take their politics in predigested form, the row may be too long, too hard.

Bureaucrats vs. Budgeteers

The suspicion that the federal government can't check the spread of inflation because its bureaucrats are bigger than its budgeteers is more frightening than all the rest of the scare stories about big government combined. It's more than a suspicion. It's an opinion, shared by the U. S. comptroller general, the experts who worked on the Hoover commission report and many members of congress.

They believe that the juggernaut of government has grown so huge that no one can stop it. The massed bureaucrats simply roll over their adversaries. The appeal of avarice is too much for voters to resist. "To me the fiscal picture of our government is bleak," said Virginia's Senator Byrd a few days ago. "The crisis is virtually upon us. We have only three courses open. The first is a drastic reduction in spending. The second is a substantial increase in taxes. The third is large-scale deficit financing."

The second and third courses would lead to ruin. And a reduction in spending would mean an abrupt departure from the welfare state program which is the Truman administration's chief stock in trade. The political prospect is that the Truman administration will advocate more, not less, spending. Only one thing could stop it—the determined resistance of a majority of congress to every proposal for spending money, especially proposals which would commit the government to spend huge sums year after year, as in school grants. If this is not done, the time will come when budget-makers will have lost all power to cut back the rate of federal spending. Every major item will be a fixed and inescapable commitment. Bureaucrats will be in complete control.

Dollar Diplomacy, New Style

The United Nations economic commission's survey of Europe won't win any prizes from those who insist that the Marshall plan is the last word in 20th century diplomacy. The commission reports in 1949-50 well chosen words that European aid is hindering European economic cooperation—though intended to promote it.

The inference comes about through the reliance of governments on American dollars instead of European economic integration. Instead of relying on one another, they are relying on the United States. With the best of intentions, this country is disturbing the natural growth of normal trade relations. This danger was obvious, but it was supposed to be averted by careful planning.

It's the more pit of evidence that dollar diplomacy, new style, has built in hazards that can't be safely ignored. If the United States could learn that money and wealth have no magic to themselves, but become magical only in proportion to the intelligence with which they're used, the reason would be worth a few of the billions it's costing.

AT this time an impetuous, rash or ill-considered course of action in putting over projects of major importance could have power to jeopardize ambitious objectives, and may alienate the needful financial cooperation of those in influential places. A studied, calm and practical plan of action is recommended for best results.

For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it is, may feel impelled to forge ahead on unusually promising opportunities for promoting major desires, efforts and creative impulses. Shun wild attempts to force the situation, impetuously, unreasonably, heedless of the experimental or novel character of the matters involved. Such overardent or immediate attempt to "crash the gate" could not only jeopardize funds for development but as well forfeit the good will of co-workers or partners. A collected, calm and studied analysis of fundamentals could retain all needful cooperation. Experiences and wise heads should be consulted.

Methods of Preventing Tooth Decay

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

TODAY'S children should grow up with better teeth than their parents because after many years of effort we have developed a means of preventing or at least reducing the amount of tooth decay. A well-balanced diet certainly has some influence in the formation of sound teeth and it is also thought to play a role in preserving them. Here reliance has been placed on a reduction in the amount of starchy foods and sweets allowed the child.

Regular visits to the dentist are, of course, important so that any decay present can be removed before it spreads and destroys the whole tooth.

But today's best hope of preventing caries or tooth decay lies in the use of sodium fluoride. Attention was first drawn to the decay-preventing properties of this chemical when it was found a few years ago that tooth decay was infrequent among people living in areas where sodium fluoride was naturally present in the drinking water.

It has since been found that if a 2 per cent. solution of sodium fluoride is applied to the teeth on four occasions, a week apart, and is preceded by a thorough cleansing of the teeth, a reduction of 40 per cent in the amount of tooth decay occurs.

More than four applications do not increase the preventive effects of the preparation. Its effect seems to be retained for as long as three years.

If the teeth are not thoroughly cleansed before the fluoride solution is applied, its effectiveness is reduced by about half.

It would appear that the best effects are obtained when the sodium fluoride is applied once or twice a week for four applications. Increasing the interval from three to six months seems to decrease the decay preventive action.

The solution may be applied to the teeth with a spray, and is just as effective in this way as when it is put on with a cotton applicator. One study was carried out to determine if using a calcium or lime preparation with the sodium fluoride improved its action, but it was found that it was no better than when the fluoride was used alone.

The treatment with the sodium fluoride is usually carried out by a dentist. Taking fluoride preparations by mouth, or the use of various substances containing the fluoride, apparently does not have the same value as its direct application by the dentist.

Parents should consult with a dentist about having this treatment carried out, for their children. Tooth decay is not only painful but often interferes with chewing, thus resulting in poor nutrition. Germs or other poisons may be

Recently there have been a number of new reducing preparations on the market, some of them based on the diet and vitamin "plan." So what to do? Well, here is a tip to you "overweight" who want to fight "the Battle of the Bulge" in a different way. Ask

S.S. Kresge Store Marks 50th Anniversary Of Firm

The Salem Kresge store, which was opened for the first time July 1, 1900, will join with 700 Kresge stores in the United States and Canada today in beginning a four-week celebration of the founding of the S. S. Kresge Co. 50 years ago.

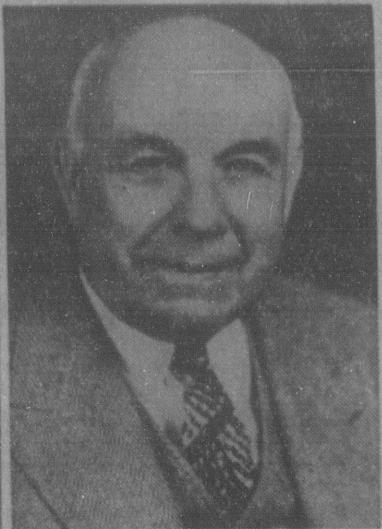

Sebastian S. Kresge, 81-year-old chairman of the board, launched the huge chain of variety stores in 1899 when he became sole owner of a small 10-cent store in Detroit.

He had accumulated $6,700 when he decided at the age of 30, to enter the variety store field with J. G. McCrory as his partner. They opened two stores—one in Memphis and the other in Detroit.

After managing the Tennessee store for 16 months, Mr. Kresge traded his half interest in the two stores for sole ownership of the Detroit store.

Mr. Kresge was born of Swiss ancestry on a farm near Bald Mount, Pa. His original ambition was to open a single variety store. Before becoming a merchandiser, he sold tinware to Mr. McCrory and other customers.

Ownership of the company Mr. Kresge founded is now shared by more than 28,000 stockholders. Of the 700 stores, 65 are in Canada.

S. S. Kresge

The firm has more than 35,000 employees in the two countries.

Eighteen are employed in the local Kresge store, each sharing in a liberal employee benefit program.

G. A. A. Holds Final Square Dance Program

In charge of the affair were Shirley Bell, Jean Huddleston, Donna Stoffer, June Brunner, Dorothy Cibula, Rose Nocera and Jean Eskhart.

Refreshments were served during the dance which lasted from 8 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. More square dances are planned for next fall.

Five members of the club have been invited to the Kent State university high school play day to be held Saturday at Kent. They are: Jean Huddleston, June Brunner, Dorothy Cibula, Helen Brenner and Harriet Worman. Miss Edith Cope, club advisor, will accompany the girls.

It's Thanks to You America ON THIS OUR

50th ANNIVERSARY

It has been fifty years since the opening of the first Kresge store. Time slips by rapidly when one is busy and making progress. That has been our experience since 1899. Progress requires cooperation and we fully realize that Kresge's position today is due to more than our own efforts. To the millions of individuals and thousands of firms with whom we have associated through the years we extend our sincere thanks. We are appreciative, too, of the many advantages we have enjoyed in this great land of opportunity. America's spirit of free enterprise—of equal opportunity for all—has nurtured us just as it has fostered countless other firms. So long as this American spirit of free enterprise shall prevail, we can look forward to tomorrow with the same deep pleasure and pride with which we look back today.

To you,

our customers

To the millions of thrifty men and women—yes, and children, too—who daily visit Kresge's stores, we express our genuine appreciation. Your acceptance of our efforts to provide dependable merchandise at low prices has made our progress possible. It will always be our aim to offer you the best of values and service . . . we want to continue to enjoy your confidence and patronage . . . our future progress depends upon you.

To you,

Kresge's happily makes this an occasion to acknowledge the splendid cooperation we have enjoyed from our suppliers large and small, new and old, some of whom have served us for over 40 years. Your service has indeed often extended "far beyond the line of duty". While providing the newest and best in merchandising for our customers, you have also often cooperated with our buyers in seeking ways of improving the values and selections to be found on our counters.

To you,

The Kresge Company is proud of the excellent teamwork and true loyalty of its 37,000 employees, more than 700 of whom have been members of the Kresge "family" for over 25 years. While this organization shows its social consciousness in such tangible benefits as group life insurance, retirement pensions, vacations with pay and cash awards for helpful suggestions, the Company takes this particular occasion to combine into one sincere, whole-hearted expression its 37,000 individual "thanks".

How far can a man go in this land of opportunity and free enterprise? Sebastian S. Kresge supplies part of the answer. He was born in 1867 on a small farm at Bald Mount, Pennsylvania, near the land on which his Swiss ancestors had settled long before. Mr. Kresge was a poor boy judged by worldly goods, but he had a wealth of vision and ambition. He foresaw a great future in the low-priced merchandise business. He was determined to make his dream a reality.

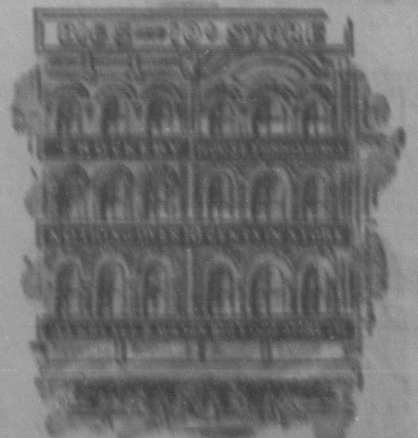

Mr. Kresge started in business on a very small scale. But 50 years can work miracles in the life of a man who has a definite aim in life and who has the determination to achieve it. Today, the name "Kresge" is a symbol of thrift to millions of men, women, and children. These shoppers find in Kresge stores countless articles of wearing apparel, and an almost endless variety of items of personal necessity and individual luxury, at surprisingly low "small-change" prices.

And home needs, too—worlds of them! In the smallest cottages or largest homes—in hamlet, town or great metropolis—you'll find Kresge merchandise in evidence in almost every room. Window shades and curtain rods—kitchenware and pillow cases—paints, hardware and "fix-up" items—the selection is always large and always up to date. Kresge values have brought added beauty, added comfort and added conveniences to homes throughout the land, at budget-aiding prices.

50 years ago Mr. Kresge was "tending counter" in his one store, located in Detroit. His stocks were extremely limited—needles, thread, buttons, pins and other notions goods, small items in tinware, wood-ware and crockery, and the other incidental things which he could secure to sell at ten cents or less. But the public liked his values and service. Business grew steadily; and as sales continued to increase, Mr. Kresge continued to add to his merchandise assortments. You can easily guess the result. Expansion was inevitable.

Kresge stores, distributed in the central and northeast section of the United States and from coast to coast in Canada, are stocked with a wonderland of intriguing values for all the family, for every home. Many of these Kresge stores are the largest and finest shopping centers of their kind. And the Kresge Company is constantly at work on plans to make each Kresge store the best in its community . . . with the best values, best selections and best service.

Rev. Kenneweg Tells Of Missionary Trips

Rev. C. F. Kenneweg, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, Lisbon, discussed his experiences in mission work in Ethiopia when he was guest speaker at a meeting of the Mel's Missionary movement of the First Friends church Monday evening in the church.

HISTORIC

He was spent in the west. After his return east he pastored the Salem church for four years.

Affiliated with the Congregational Christian church, he was retired a few years ago, and then recalled by the board.

Pastor of the Highland church, since last July, he has enrolled 21 new members there.

While he is a "fisher of men" by profession, his hobby is fishing for fish.

Highland Christian, one of the oldest rural churches in this district, is set on one of the most scenic spots in the county. Organized Dec. 7, 1890, the edifice was erected in 1891 on property donated by Joel Johnson. Mrs. Frank Harris carried the first Bible into the church.

History Recalled

Uriah Teegarden, Ephraim Holway and Joshua Spencer were named trustees at a meeting Feb. 4, 1890, early history of the church reveals. The first members left this record. "We agree to bind ourselves together to be known as the Highland Christian church and to take the Bible for our only rule of Faith and practice."

Rev. D. V. Hyde, first pastor, held the charge from 1890 to 1873.

In 1873 there were 120 members on the roll, and the next pastor, Rev. E. Cameron, received $100 for his first year of preaching. The next year the amount was increased to $150.

Among the other ministers who have served the church are Rev. Dunlap, Rev. J. Weaver, Rev. George W. Grate, Rev. J. M. Carter, Rev. J. S. Earhart, Rev. Hamlin, Rev. Arnold Westfall, Rev. Gardner, Rev. Lambert, Rev. Costigan, Rev. Cope,

Mrs. Joseph Speer, Rev. Ewing and Rev. Arvid Kultunen. Miss Ida Jehu, now of Damascus, was organist of this church for years.

In 1892 a Norway pine ceiling was put on at a cost of $72. Previous to this the ceiling had been whitewashed.

The church organ was purchased in 1904 at cost of $85. The bell was hung on the church Aug. 1, 1919.

Present church officers are: Trustees — George Harris, Clyde Farmer and William Freeman; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Harris; church treasurer, Mrs. James Starkie; Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. Clarence Lease; secretary, Miss Mary Lease; pianist, Mrs. John A. Driscoll.

THE MAN WHO WANTS A FINEST MOTOR CAR THAN THE 1947 Cadillac, will have to wait. He will have to wait until the science of motor car manufacture has reached a higher level. For here—in this gloriously beautiful creation—is to be found the embodiment of all that is currently good and desirable in an automobile.

It is, in every way, as fine and splendid a motor car as it is practical to produce.

As is true of each succeeding Cadillac model, the advancements in the 1949 car are manifold, and encompass every aspect of the car's goodness. But the year's greatest advance is in the power plant—a wholly new V-type engine which easily ranks as Cadillac's creative masterpiece.

The power flow is so smooth, and so seemingly inexhaustible, that many say the car seems to move by automatic propulsion. Performance is really a challenge to the imagination.

If you wish to know how truly wonderful a motor car can be, you are cordially invited to call at our showrooms for a look and a ride.

You are welcome at any time—regardless of the price tag from which you expect your next car to come.

Hardwood Floor Care Outlined

Grandma's floors may have been spotless, but chances are they were splintery, too! She took pride in scrubbing them at least once a week with soap and water, but her zeal was more commendable than her method. Frequent scrubbing not only leaves a floor splintery, it sometimes discolors the finish.

Hardwood floors are beautiful to begin with and if properly maintained they never lose their beauty. Even if they are neglected or subjected to unusual wear, they can be economically restored to their original appearance.

If a floor is merely dirty, it can be made to look like new by cleaning it with a waxbase cleaner that removes the dirt and leaves a protective wax coating. When a higher gloss is desired, wax should be applied immediately after the cleaning. Paste wax or a solvent liquid wax should be used. They

But, in view of the fact that drivers in the 18-24 age group make up well under 20% of the total of all drivers and in view of the further fact that they are charged with 28.9% of all fatal accidents, the figures are really startling!

This situation will continue until more schools accept their responsibility for training young people in proper driving attitudes and procedures. Ohio is making progress in this direction, but there is need for much more progress and many more schools with courses in this all-important field. It is quite possible that a high school boy or girl may go through an entire four-year course without hearing anything about his responsibilities as a driver.

Under these circumstances, he is graduated, but sadly equipped!

MAY CRAIG WINS BATTLE FOR TRIP IN NAVY SHIPS

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, May 10—(UP)—Tiny May Craig, weight 120 pounds, puffed herself up to over five feet and told off the great big navy. And got away with it.

It was like this:
Many weeks ago, the Navy put a notice on the bulletin boards in the press galleries of the house and senate inviting reporters to take weekend cruises on carriers. The Navy meant men, but it didn't say so.

May, a correspondent for a bunch of papers in Maine, has a set of sharp eyes behind her horn-rimmed specs. She was the first to spot the memo and say "aye-aye," which she did—in writing.

The Navy didn't reply.
She telephoned the Navy. The Navy, not expecting any lady guests, since none is allowed on a Navy vessel, sputtered and said it would call back. The Navy didn't. But little May did.

The Navy said, golly, it was sorry, but the carrier Midway, which was to weigh anchor last Saturday with a flock of congressmen and newspapermen, had no facilities for women.

May said, wait a second. Hadn't the Navy invited a couple of lady congressmen to make the trip? Reva Zilpha Beck Bosone of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Chase Going Woodhouse of Connecticut?

The Navy said it would check and call back. The Navy called back this time and said it was sorry again. No go.

May, who would just as soon wear an anchor as a sprig of hollyhock or bridle wreath in her hats, bristled. She is one who was taught in her cub days to go to the top. She called John Lawrence Sullivan—this was before he resigned as secretary of the Navy.

"What's going on?" she demanded.

John said he didn't know but would darn soon find out.

He darn soon did.

And before May could change the flowers on her bonnet, the then secretary called back.

"May," said he, "I hope you and the congresswomen have a very fine trip."

May, you may be sure, said "thank you."

Used to Fights
The little gal from Maine, by the way, is used to fighting for her rights around the Capital where women reporters, especially grandmas like May, once feared to tread.

Male members of the Capital press crews screamed like crazy when the gals decided to bore into their inner sanctum. They'd fix 'em, the guys said. No lady powder rooms.

May got her hat feathers up and said the darlings of the press would see about that. She should have cut the "s" out of darlings because she fought the battle almost alone.

Today, there are powder rooms in both the house and senate press galleries, thanks to our gals. I'll take May's word for that.

May, who thinks a woman has a place in the city room where once only men held sway, has had her troubles. Truman refused to let her come back on the battleship Missouri from the Rio Conference because there was no "lady's room" on the ship. She lost that one.

And she's never been allowed to put on a dinner jacket and black tie and go to the White House correspondents' annual dinner.

"But, darn it," she said, "some day I will."

Economy Housing Good

Housing under the economy housing program must not be cheese-box housing, although such housing may sacrifice some immediate

"frilleries" for functional space. Leading members of the homebuilding industry are in agreement on this and they are also in agreement that low-cost quality housing of good design can be built and must be built.

What Would You Do If You Were Like Harry Lepseter

NEW YORK—(AP)—What would you do if you were Harry Lepseter?

Your only boy, Nathan, 21, went down with an American bomber in France in 1944. Officially, he has not been heard from since. By all odds of war, he is dead.

But you can't picture the boy dead. You feel he is alive. You figure he has amnesia or was badly hurt. Maybe he can't find his way home to Brooklyn, where he was born.

So you decide to go to him. Your friends try to be kind. But in their hearts they seem to be telling you:

"Harry, the war's over. Your boy is dead. It's too bad. But lots of other boys died, too, you know."

You go to the newspapers. You go to France and talk to people there. Some of them think they saw your boy alive after his plane went down. But you can't be sure they aren't just telling you what you want to hear. They have no proof.

You write to Washington, letter after letter. But they have done everything they are supposed to do.

You work a few days a week in a Broadway restaurant where you are a waiter. You lie awake nights at home in Brooklyn. You spend every cent you can get to keep the search going, mailing letters and your boy's picture here and abroad.

You neglect your health. Your hair grows whiter. Your body gets thinner and a little more bent. Your 55 years get heavier.

Your wife, Dora, shares your faith. You picket together during an Air Forces association convention in New York. It gets you publicity and pictures. Maybe it will get your story some place where it hasn't been before. Maybe Nathan will see it and remember.

You know you should give up. But you can't.

Then this week, a solid, dark-haired lad of 25, H. H. Tucker of Charleston, W. Va., shows up. He says he knew Nathan overseas. He claims to have seen him alive in a Belgian hospital two months after his plane went down.

There, you say to yourself, I knew he was alive. I knew it. But that was more than four years ago.

Tucker says his story has led the War department to reopen its investigation into your son's disappearance.

So you go back to your work in the Broadway restaurant. And back at night to your home in Brooklyn. And you keep on writing letters, asking questions, hoping... hoping...

What else would you do, if you were Harry Lepseter?

BELIEVES VIDEO REVOLUTIONIZES TEACHING CHORE

COLUMBUS, May 10—Television may revolutionize school teaching, a video educational director said today.

Mrs. Ruth Weir Miller of Station WCAU-TV, Philadelphia, believes television already has proved "undreamed of possibilities as the teacher's ally" by dramatizing subjects.

A work-study group on school broadcasts heard Mrs. Miller's enthusiastic predictions of television possibilities at Ohio State university's 19th annual institute for education by radio.

The intimacy of a television set, she added, makes it possible to create concepts of a people, customs, invention and experiments.

HISTORIC MILESTONE in aviation is being marked by Navy May 8, with the Truculent Turtle, holder of the world's nonstop distance flight record—Perth, Australia, to Columbus, O.—retracing the first transatlantic flight, made by another Navy plane, the NC-4 ("N" for Navy, "C" for Curtiss, "4" for plane number) which started May 8, 1919, and reached Lisbon, Portugal, 19 days later. The Turtle is expected to make the flight in 15 hours. The NC-4 went on to England, was received by enthusiastic crowds. Lt. Comdr. Read, NC-4 pilot, is now retired, living in Washington. Comdr. Davies, Turtle pilot, is from Cleveland. Davies' takeoff point is Floyd Bennett field, Long Island, where the NC-4 started, and his route is the same except that no stops are scheduled until Lisbon. Veterans Prove To Be Good Home Loan Risks

World war II veterans have sustained the early promise of being good home lending risks during the first four years of the veterans' home ownership program, according to the United States Savings and Loan league.

The league, representing institutions which have made 36.7 per cent of the dollar volume of all GI loans, says that the repayment record of veterans was 98.71 per cent perfect at the close of 1948.

A year-end survey of GI home lending by savings associations showed that 1948 brought an increase of less than two-tenths of a point in the percentage of delinquencies among GI borrowers. The loan is listed as delinquent where payments on principal and interest, due monthly from the borrowers, are three months or more in arrears.

the acquisition of concepts," Mrs. Miller said, "then television is the most dynamic tool the teacher has ever had at her command."

Proven Success

The educational director told the group an experimental project in schools in the greater Philadelphia and nearby New Jersey area already has proven successful.

She directs specially designed TV programs to students in 31 schools. The programs are carried to the regular classrooms four days a week.

The special broadcasts are sponsored by the Philadelphia and diocesan public and parochial school officials, WCAU-TV and RCA-Victor.

Television could be especially important to students in that historic vents are more meaningful when observed as well as heard, the director said.

"A generation brought up with television," she reported, "can be trained effectively for participation in the affairs of government and for the responsibilities of citizenship."

Mrs. Miller also listed two other advantages of video as a teaching aid. They are:

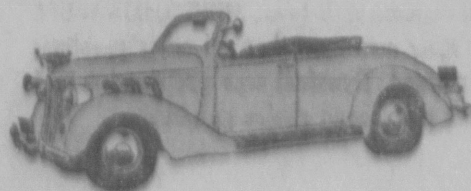

(1) It gives schools an opportunity to pool their resources. "The television screen can bring into every classroom the particularly gifted teacher or outstanding students."

(2) The "teleteacher" can bring educationally valuable demonstrations to the classroom. "It is an intimate medium and a student can acquire the desire for a new skill and even the skill itself by careful observation."

DEPARTMENT OF CONJECTURE

Despite the fact that track-and track meets—have never been and still aren't the most popular things in the sporting world with the spectators, one can't help realizing the value of such an event as the Salem Night relay to a community such as Salem.

The track meet here Saturday wasn't a spectacular one. There was no flurry of excitement over the outcome and very little hope among local fans—and athletes—that Salem might win. But nevertheless, the meet meant a lot to Salem.

Some 24 other communities Saturday focused at least a partial eye on Salem as the site of a meet in which their scholastic athletes were participating. They sent from four to 25 youngsters and their coaches to spend a full day in Salem. The meet, its outcome and their individual performances were of some importance to the families and friends of all those 350-odd youngsters who were here.

That in itself is a factor worth-while to Salem.

Bearing the same vein of thought in mind, Salem can do well to appreciate and enjoy the offerings of three more major track events coming up in the near future.

This week, Friday evening to be exact, the ancient and famous Columbian county meet is coming up at Reilly stadium. Here is a sporting event so steeped in tradition as to be worthy of reams of newspaper copy on the pure history of the meet alone.

To old timers around Salem—and throughout the country—the county meet brings back memories of some of the fondest and most interesting days in sports history.

Back in the early 1900s, and through the twenties, the county meet was a thing of No. 1 importance. Scholastic athletic seasons were successes or failures, depending almost entirely on how a school's team came out in the county track meet. Bitter battles on the field of competition were waged with a venom now confined mostly to the football field or the basketball court. The county title was a thing unsurpassed in achievement. Athletes lived and breathed for those county meet medals.

The rivalry has continued down through the years. Of late it has been considerably narrowed, however, and in recent seasons has been a battle between Salem and East Palestine. This fust for the title has been personified today in the

Announce "Buffered" Action In New Household Cleaner

It's called a "buffer"—this new ingredient in "Wetolene," the miracle household cleaner just announced by Wetolene Laboratories, Inc. of Columbus, O. Here's what they say it does.

Usually dirt particles in home cleaners—flakes, powders or bar soaps—work on the cleaner in the solution to weaken it. But not with "Wetolene." Here the buffer ingredient keeps apart dirt particles and cleaning particles so that dirt can't weaken "Wetolene." The solution stays full strength throughout use.

Locally, housewives approve the new cleaning method because in washing floors, painted walls and woodwork, there's no need for rinsing and drying. In just wiping off dirt, it dries sparkling clean. Only one part to carry, and so economical it requires only one canister to a gallon of water.

Softening water as it cleans, this new cleaning soda will cut grease faster in washing dishes, pots and pans. Because "Wetolene" has the property of re-moistening soap, a complete cleaning job in the kitchen is made out of "Wetolene" and water. It's the only thing for coaching duel between Fred Cope of Salem and Bill Ward of East Palestine.

This year that battle is not direct, for Cope is a step out of the coaching angle. But the competition, this corner imagines, will still be tight as long as Cope is around Salem to stir the will to win in any track squad SHS may field.

That meet this week should be worth looking over. But it doesn't end the track state here by a long shot. Salem also is fortunate in being paying a second speaking visit to Salem on Monday, May 23.

In both affairs Salem fans will see the best track stars northeastern Ohio has to offer. Records are sure to fall. Races are certain to be highly contested and interesting to watch.

Salemites will do well to step down to Reilly field and see the features few towns the size of Salem offer their sports followers. A lot of people missed a good bet last Saturday.

DEPT. OF INFORMATION

We learn that Coach Chuck Mather of Massillon, formerly of Leetonia, and Coach Carl "Ducky" Schroeder, formerly of Salem, will be paying a second speaking visit to Salem on Monday, May 23.

The pair are to be guests of the Salem Amvet post at a special football program they are arranging at their post rooms, E. State st. Schroeder should find himself quite at home among the Amvets, whose personnel includes almost every football player who ever performed for Ducky and Salem High during his tenure as head coach here.

Mather reports that he will bring along the Canton-Massillon game films, which he screened for the Boosters in January, as well as other films of top-notch scholastic games of the past season.

ODDS AND ENDS

At the Cleveland Brown clinic last Friday this observer had the pleasure of meeting and chatting at length with East Liverpool's newly hired football tutor, Coach Watts, son of the former B-W football coach. . . . Young Mr. Watts is a splendid fellow in a conversational way and is quite determined that his Potter eleven next fall will give Salem a bad time. . . .

Salem figures to be the scene of considerable college coach recruiting activity within the next week or two. . . . Sid Gillman of Cincinnati, Bud Houghton of Akron university, John Brinkley of Miami university and representatives from Vanderbilt in the south are planning to look around here. . . .

Althouse To Open Baseball Sunday

The Althouse Dodge ball team will open its season Sunday at the Lake Placid diamond, meeting the North Canton Hoovers, last year's Canton city champions. The tilt will be played at 2:30 p.m. Bus Simpson, who will manage the Althouse club, has called a practice session for 5:30 both tonight and Friday at the lake field. All players wanting tryouts are invited to report.

Seeks Games Here
The Stark Prick softball team of Canton, 1948 city and district champions, would like to book night games on Sunday nights at Massillon with leading teams in the Salem area.

Managers should write to William Poling, R. D. 4, Trump road, Canton, Ohio.

Lou Boudreau Back In Lineup For Tribe Today

Herman Reich Back With Club After Mysterious Deal By Bill Vecek

CLEVELAND, May 10—(AP)—Lou Boudreau returned to shortstop today as the Cleveland Indians sought to burst the bubble that has carried Washington's Senators to seven straight wins.

Steve Gromek was picked to hurl for the Tribe against Mickey Haefner, Washington butterfly artist, in the series resumption. The Nats lead two games to none by virtue of their 7-3 and 2-0 wins in the doubleheader Sunday.

Boudreau, who was hit on the left elbow for the second time this year in the first game, spent part of yesterday's off day with Trainer Lefty Weisman.

Gene Bearden, also injured in the first game, is not expected to pitch again for another week. The tall left-hander pulled up lame after making a difficult play on a bunt in the third inning.

The re-acquisition of Herman Reich from the Washington club was the main off-day gossip in the Wigwam. Reich, sold to the Nats for the waiver price 10 days ago, bounced back today by the same manner of sale.

Lefty Vecek declined comment on the mysterious deal, but he intimated definite plans for Reich.

"Wait and see what happens," he told reporters with a grin.

MAKINGS OF GOOD RACE ARE READY FOR PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, May 10—(AP)—The makings of a tight horse race for Saturday's Preakness are at old Pimlico today.

The cream from the Kentucky Derby is on the grounds ready for the second leg on the triple crown. Five of the 14 starters at Louisville have arrived and they're enough to assure a crack field for the Preakness.

Only the best came up from Kentucky. They were the first four and seventh colts across the Derby line. All that remains now is for the outsiders to come in and determine the size of the field. The best guess now is that it will be around ten. Each starter will throw around $2,000 into the overall pot, which now stands at $101,870.

The train from Louisville today brought in Calumet farm's Derby winner, Ponder, second place Capot, and Model Cudet, the seventh finisher last Saturday. They joined Palestinian, the Derby show colt and fourth place Old Rockport, both of which arrived yesterday.

Trainer Hirsch Jacobs promptly announced a change of riders for Palestinian. He hired Eddie Arcaro to make the Preakness ride. Headley Woodhouse was up on Palestinian in the Derby.

Arcaro was left without a mount when Fred Hooper decided not to run Olympia in the Preakness after the thoroughbred finished sixth at Churchill Downs. Arcaro will be after his third Preakness victory.

But a new necessity to replace Olympia may have been found yesterday in Noble Impulse. The Crispin Ogley colt demanded consideration by setting a new Pimlico track record for a mile and a sixteenth in the survivor stakes. That's two sixteenths short of the Preakness distance.

Noble Impulse was clocked at 1:42, two fifths of a second better than the old record, and he did it while winning by five lengths. Trainer J. P. Jones said afterwards Noble Impulse would start Saturday if the track is fast.

BOWLING

A group of Salem bowlers made almost a clean sweep of the recent Mahoning Valley mixed doubles tournament at the Struthers Bowlingrome.

Anna DeJane and Don Kraus copped first place in the meet, with a 1663 score, including handicap. Olive Ramsey and Howard Dunbar took second, with 1598, while Mildred Kline and Bill Kring grabbed third honors, registering 1588. Seventh place was taken by Ann Skorski and Jack Gelschick, who scored 1,540.

Jacobs Beach To Be Louis Lane In New Boxing Set-Up

By STAN OPOTOWSKY
NEW YORK, May 10—(UP)—Jacobs Beach became Louis Lane as aged, ailing Uncle Mike stepped down and the Brown Bomber prepared to step up as king of the boxing promotion business.

Well, maybe not exactly king. President is more like it—president, with a congress or hard-headed businessmen to make the real laws.

The new organization supplants the 20th Century club as the boxing promotion agency for Madison Square garden and the Yankee stadium—but it is far more sweeping than 20th Century because it also includes the Chicago stadium and the Detroit Olympia.

Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square garden, revealed the colossal new organization yesterday, confirming reports which had been whispered for weeks in the fight clubs and gymnasiums around New York.

Effective June 1, Jacobs' 20th Century steps out, and in its place goes the International Boxing club, which was formed with Louis as titular head when the Bomber retired as heavyweight champion this winter.

Stockholders will be the IBC men—Arthur Wirtz and James Norris, who between them own the Chicago stadium and the Detroit Olympia—and the Garden people.

Louis in all probability will be the director, probably in a "front man" and matchmaker capacity while someone like Harry Markson will run the behind-the-scenes activity. Markson is Jacobs' former publicity man and now managing director of 20th Century.

In a way, it is most fitting that Louis replace Jacobs as the premier figure in boxing, for it was with the Bomber's brutal fists that Uncle Mike fashioned his million-dollar business.

Born 68 years ago in a poverty-stricken section of New York, Little Mike started as a newsboy in the true Horatio Alger tradition. Next he was peddling excursion tickets on the little sidewalkers which took the New Yorkers and their girls to Coney Island.

From that, Jacobs built up a wealthy ticket agency. He had an uncanny sixth sense in ticket speculation, knowing when to buy and when to sell, and eventually he built a bankroll behind Tex Rickard, the man who put a coat and tie on the boxing business.

Then came Louis—and that hoisted Jacobs from the thousand-dollar class to the million-dollar class.

He signed up this dusky assassin from Detroit to an exclusive contract. The Garden's Jacobs' enemy, not a friend in those days—matched Jimmy Braddock and Max Schmeling for Braddock's championship. But shrewd Jacobs inveigled Braddock to fight Louis instead, promising him a share of Louis' future earnings. Jacobs and Louis won—and the Garden was forced to join Uncle Mike, giving him exclusive promotion rights.

That made Jacobs king, and he stayed king until the fearful day in 1946 when he collapsed from a stroke. Then—not yesterday—was when Jacobs' empire really crumbled. For he never returned to activity. And now he never will.

FEAT OF GIANTS IN PAST SEVEN DAYS IS AMAZING

Team's Hitting, Pitching Is Out of World: Taps National Loop

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
One swallow doesn't make a spring and one week doesn't make a season. But during the past seven days the New York Giants have been as near perfect as a baseball club can be.

Here are some of the amazing feats accomplished by Leo Durocher's men—the team experts predicted would wind up an also-ran because the pitchers would give away more runs than the hitters could manufacture.

Including last night's handy 7-2 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, the Giants have won their last seven starts to take a game and a half lead in the National league race.

During that stretch, Giant pitchers have gone the route in all but one game, and in that one, Sheldon Jones, who went all the way last night was removed for a pinch hitter after allowing only one earned run in eight innings.

In six of the Giants' last seven games, Durocher has used the minimum nine men throughout. Only a pinch hitter and a two-inning relief job by Hank Behrman last Thursday marred a perfect week.

The club has used a four-man rotating system on the mound throughout the season—Clint Hartung, Larry Jansen, Monte Kennedy and Jones. No other pitcher has started a game. This big four has allowed only 14 runs in the last seven games.

While holding the opposition to two runs per game, the Giants pounded enemy hurlers for 48 during the week.

Last night's homer hitters were Gordon (No. 7) and Marshall (No. 3). Migney was the big gun, however. He collected a single and double and drove in three runs.

Vern Bickford pitched the Boston Braves into second place, a game and a half behind the Giants with a three-hit 4-1 triumph over the Pirates.

The Braves got eight of their 10 hits and three runs off loser Murray Dickson. Marv Rickert and Jimmy Russell each had a home run, with three and two hits, respectively.

In an afternoon affair, the St. Louis Cardinals snapped a three-game losing streak by thrashing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 14-5, to move out of the cellar. The loss dropped the Dodgers into third place, a half game behind the Braves.

The American league leading New York Yankees, who have been surging through the west in old championship style, received a surprising 4-1 setback by the Tigers in Detroit. Young Ted Gray limited the Bronx Bombers to five hits to outpitch Vic Raschi.

Dick Wakefield started the Tigers off on a three-run second inning by blasting Raschi's first pitch for a home run. Johnny Ligon's single with the bases loaded furnished the Tigers with two more runs. A single by Johnny Lindell followed by Jack Phillips' three spoiled Gray's shutout.

All other American league teams enjoyed a day off. The scheduled night game between Cincinnati and the Phils in Philadelphia was postponed by rain.

Bowlers Do Well On Short Notice

COLUMBUS, May 9—(AP)—Two Cleveland girls who didn't plan on bowling as partners until they reached the WIBC tournament at Leys now are in first place with 1196 pins in the two-women event.

Marge Slogar and Mary Primosh are the pair. Mrs. Primosh led off with 623 and Slogar contributed 573. They switched partners just before going on the lanes.

Mrs. Slogar, 35, a mail order clerk, has become one of the hard luck champs of WIBC tournaments. In 1939 at Omaha, she scored 612 in the singles, and was tied for the championship by Dorothy Burnette of Chicago, who won the low-ball for the title.

That was one of several changes.

GOLF'S BIG GUNS ASSEMBLING FOR GOODALL TOURNEY

NEW YORK, May 10—(AP)—The big guns of professional golf began assembling today for one of the toughest tests of the rugged tournament trail—the Goodall round robin at Wykagyl Country club.

This is the event in which a hand-picked field of 16 of the nation's top shotmakers fire away at each other. Every man matches his game against that of the other 15.

The field includes the top performers of the winter circuit, Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis; Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, West Va., the recent Masters victor; Byron Nelson, the mechanical Texan essaying a mild comeback, and Bobby Locke of South Africa, among others.

Herman Barron, the White Plains, N. Y., veteran, is defending champion.

Completing the field are Chick Herbert, Clayton Haefer, Fred Haas, Bob Hamilton, Jimmy Demaret, Jim Turnesa, Johnny Palmer, Dutch Harrison, Vic Ghezzi and Skip Alexander.

This year the tournament will be scored on medal play rather than match play.

Middlecoff, the young Memphis dentist who shaded Locke in the Greenbrier, W. Va., open the past week-end, is regarded as the "hottest" player on the divot circuit at the moment.

Figures for the winter tournament swing, released by the P. G. A. yesterday, show Middlecoff just behind Mangrum in earnings.

Mangrum has earned $9,707.50 this year compared with $9,459.57 for Middlecoff.

AMVETS WIN FRAY SUNDAY 5 TO 3

The Salem Amvets baseball team evened up their season's record at one win and one loss Sunday by defeating the Wellsville American Legion nine 5-3 at the Salem A. C. park.

Buster Wukotich and Dave Kachner twirled for the locals and allowed only six hits. Wukotich was the winning pitcher. The Amvets collected 10 bingles off Platt of Wellsville.

John Drakulich, Mel Wukotich and Walt Woods each notched two hits for the Amvets, while Daggie Scullion hit a home run.

Salem Battles Struthers To Tie In Dual Competition

Showing vast improvement in several events, Coach Troy Penner's Salem High tracksters battled tie with Struthers Monday night at Reilly stadium.

It took a dramatic last broad jump by Team Captain Ray Yeager to clinch the tie. The Senior had leaped 19 feet, two inches with the pressure on to knot the meet. The jump gave him first place, a bare half-inch ahead of Umbel of Struthers.

After the Quakers took the mile relay, it was necessary for them to get six points in the broad jump to tie. Eight points would have won. Yeager's jump was his best ever, incidentally, and had to be.

Salem took seven firsts in the 14 events. Yeager was responsible for wins in the 440 and broad jump. Paul Provins copped the mile and Jerry Miller the low hurdles. Lige Alexander, Fritz Bichsel and Jack Haldeman tied for first in the high jump. Don Abrams was first in the half mile run and the mile relay team was tops.

The results:
HIGH HURDLES—Umbel (St) won; Allhouse (St) 2; Hurlburt (S) 3. Time: 17 sec.

100 YARD DASH—Hoffman (St) won; J. Miller (S) 2; Schwab (S) 3. Time: 10.8 sec.

More Private Homes To Be Built In 1949

Most In $10,000 or Less Class, Six Percent Building Cost Decline

CHICAGO—(AP)—Thirteen per cent more privately built new homes are planned this year than in 1948. Most of them will be in the under $10,000 class and they'll represent an average of six per cent decline in building costs.

This forecast was made in a survey by Practical Builders, building industry magazine. The magazine said it sent questionnaires to 1,000 builders, large and small, in every state.

However, the publication said while "builders in Alabama, Georgia and Louisville consistently reported a greater number of 'starts' in new homes as compared to last year, the rest of the country indicated fewer of the same 'starts.' It said the survey showed a "more conservative approach to spring home building activity."

The survey showed a reduction in building costs ranging from five per cent to 15 per cent, with six per cent the general figure.

Most of the builders said the bulk of their houses would be in the $7,500-$8,200 group.

Cost reductions, the survey showed, are resulting from greater productivity by labor; increased supply of most materials; firmer price quotations on products and subcontractor work; more engineering and pre-planning; a general improvement in methods "because there is more time to study the job."

The builders said whatever savings are made in construction costs will be passed on to buyers in the form of lower prices or better value.

Major obstacles confronting the builders, the survey indicated, are "conservative and unrealistic FHA appraisals; lack of finance and too high down payment requirements."

Some Rules To Govern Home Art

By E. H. GUNDER

The artistic atmosphere of your home is, as in all forms of art, a matter of personal taste. But whether you are of the modern school or favor the more mellow traditions of a period, certain elementary rules of composing or arranging objects can apply to any style.

I like to think of a room as a picture with the same balance, harmony of color and composition that a good painting would have. A room, of course, differs from the flat plane of a picture in that it has three dimensions. As we walk into it, objects shift their relationship to each other in our view, and each step presents a new picture. Since first impressions are important, the view of your living room from its entrance way should offer a pleasing welcome to a visitor. From this point compose the picture. All good pictures have a center of interest. A fireplace, for instance, or an interesting arrangement of bookshelves are first-rate eye-catchers.

When composing groups of objects remember that three can be more interesting than two; or five more than four. Objects placed on a shelf in a row should not resemble a picket fence—vary the spacing and height to avoid monotony. A simple, safe rule for placement is to keep off dead center, or at a point more than half way. But less than three quarters. Pictures on the wall can be seen to best advantage when viewed from eye-level, and their colors should be in sympathy with your scheme.

MOST UNUSUAL HOME IN AREA HOLDS MANY NEW FEATURES

As one of the most unusual houses in the Salem area, Earl E. Marshall has built his new home on the side of a hill on the Leontia-Columbiana rd., near Kelly park.

The family living quarters are surrounded on three sides by the hill while the fourth side looks out over a sloping hill.

It is an eight-room home with the large reception room; den, storage room, powder room and double garage above ground level.

On the lower level is the living room—50 feet by 40 feet, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. There is also a service room and fruit cellar on this floor. There are 10 closets in the house.

The reception room is of adequate size to entertain groups for dinner and will be used for business activities of the Marshalls, who operate Kelly park. The den will be used for an office and will be finished in knotty pine. The storage room will be used in place of the conventional attic.

Oak hardwood has been used for all floors and all molding and wood finishing. The walls are finished in various shades of pastel colored swirl plaster.

Outstanding of the features in the home is the giant window in the living room. It is made of two panes sealed by the manufacturer and is approximately five feet by 10 feet.

On the opposite wall of the room is the perma-stone faced fireplace. "Cove-lighting" has been placed above the fireplace and on the two long sides of the room. A total of 52 feet of fluorescent tubing is used. It has a spouting-like covering beneath the tubes and the light is reflected onto the ceiling and eliminates all shadows in the room. In one wall an oak plywood writing desk, drawers and cupboards have been built.

Ideal Kitchen

The kitchen has 75 lineal feet of cupboard space in 23 cupboards above the counter area. There are also three cupboards and eight drawers beneath the counter. A formica top in a pearl finish covers the counter. Besides the stove and refrigerator, a laundramat and dryer have been placed in the kitchen.

Natural finished oak was used for the cupboards and drawer doors. Brass molding and fixtures are used throughout the kitchen. A fan above the stove carries out the odors, heat and moisture. A three-window unit in the kitchen is three and a half feet by seven feet. "Mr. and Mrs." closets have been constructed.

An interhouse phone system has been installed in the two bedrooms, den, kitchen and at the front door. As the front door is on the floor above the living quarters this intercom unit will be especially useful in case of callers.

Marshall has used a gas furnace with a filter which washes the air at regular intervals.

The eight-inch special tile brick which is used for the frame of the house is fireproof.

Ira Blosser is the contractor for the Marshall home for which the cost would be placed in the $30,000 bracket.

USE 'PLUS VALUE' MATERIALS TO CUT BUILDING COSTS

New Methods Used To Save Dollars, Rush Housing

Improved building practices, utilizing modern materials and methods, will be widely used in 1949 to stimulate lower cost housing and keep residential construction rolling, according to forecasts by building experts.

Among the money-saving features counted upon to keep building costs in line are the use of multiple-purpose materials, basement construction, improved framing techniques, simplified roof designs, truss roofs, floor furnaces and in-the-wall heaters, non-load-bearing partitions and the application of modular principles to layout.

As an example of double-duty materials which have proved their worth over several decades of use, builders point to the various insulating board products. Besides serving fundamental structural needs, these products provide insulation, now recognized as a "must" for comfortable homes.

Insulating Sheathing Popular

Insulating board products now available for residential construction include sheathing, lath, building board and decorative finishes. Insulating board sheathing has become the most widely used sheathing material in many parts of the country. Tests have shown that it provides greater structural strength than ordinary sheathing and it is three times more resistant to heat passage. Its use will reduce the flow of heat through the average wall by from 24 to 40 per cent, depending upon the climate and type of construction.

Savings in labor costs also are achieved through the use of insulating board sheathing. Time studies have shown it can be applied in two-thirds the time required for putting on the sheathing materials formerly in most common use.

A companion product, insulating board lath, is made for use as a plaster base. It provides a strong, continuous surface for the plaster and has unusually high bonding strength. In addition, of course, it insulates.

Insulation Is a Bonus

A combination of insulating board sheathing on the outside of the studs, plus insulating board lath on the inside, results in a type of exterior wall construction having both strength and high insulating value. Since both products serve a structural function, the insulation is obtained without extra cost.

Insulating building board and the decorative products, planks and tileboards, can be applied directly to the framing to build interior walls and ceilings. The boards come with one surface having a factory-applied finish. No additional decorative treatment is required.

Leave the Paint Job To Experts

By THOMAS A. BOYNTON

The quickest and most effective way to modernize a home is to paint it.

This is not as simple a chore as most householders assume. Sure, you can paint your own home, but whether the surface for a good paint job, is another matter. It is safer and cheaper in the long run to contract to have the work done properly by an established and experienced painter.

A good exterior paint of three coats for an average size six-room house may cost between $650 and $800, but it should last from four to six years.

Before you hire a painting contractor, make sure of his reputation. Get references on his work and learn something of his standing in your community. Not all painters are master painters. Too many have bought a couple of brushes, a few cans of paint and a sign, and have set themselves up in a business for which they have neither training nor aptitude.

A master painter is a craftsman selected on the basis of quality workmanship by a committee of the Association of Master Painters and Decorators of America, a craft organization.

When you have selected a reliable painter, it is wise not to "pale down" his price. If he is a good painter he is working on his reputation and that includes economy in his work. Also, don't demand a rush job. Usually it takes four men up to a week to apply each coat to an average six-room frame dwelling, and ten days to two weeks should be allowed for drying for each coat.

If a house is very dirty because of nearby railroad tracks, factories, or oil burning equipment, it should be washed before painting to enable the paint to bind properly. Mildew must be removed and sources that cause it from moisture leakage should be eliminated by a carpenter.

Both the quality of the paint and the skill with which it is applied will determine a long-lasting job. It is easy to adulterate paint and a low price may indicate this. Such poor quality paints will peel and good paint applied over them will fall as the old layers underneath continue to break from the surface.

Tiled Shower Not So Old

Tiled shower baths, found in many urban homes today, are a comparatively recent development in the United States, according to the Tile Council of America.

One of the first batteries of showers in this country was installed at the New York Juvenile asyrum in the 1890's, and tiled showers did not become popular in homes until the 1920's.

are at ground level and several feet above the floor, which means little or no air will circulate close to the floor. An electric fan placed opposite the windows and pointed toward them will help keep air moving. An exhaust fan in one of the windows is also satisfactory. Keep the windows closed on damp days.

Heavy foliage, shrubs or bushes will cause the basement air to be damp by cutting down ventilation through cellar windows, and must be removed if you want a complete cure for condensation.

Direct contact of air with the masonry can be prevented by lining the wall with an insulating material, plywood or wall board material, nailed on one-inch furring strips, and fastened to the masonry. Before lining, coat the wall with liquid asphalt or tar; otherwise the back of the board will rot. Besides preventing condensation, this procedure makes extra space available for living.

Dampness of the air may be reduced by the use of chemicals which will absorb moisture. These materials must be renewed every week or so to make up the loss due to liquefaction.

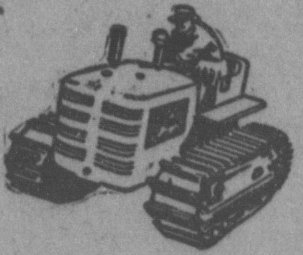

Cold-water pipes and soil pipes if in a horizontal position, will sweat during hot, humid weather and should be insulated with a material made especially for that purpose.

Kitchens Are Planned To Serve Your Family

To most people the kitchen is just about the most important room in the house.

Yet, theoretically, kitchens really aren't needed today. It would be possible to have a small combination roaster and broiler stowed away in a cabinet in the living room. Water could be drawn at the bathroom washstand. Food might be stored in the bookcase. And fine meals could be prepared.

However, since people don't choose to live that way, we have the kitchen. And so much research and planning have been devoted to it that the kitchen (along with the bathroom) has become the most modern and purely functional room in the American home—whether the house itself is modern and functional or not.

Kitchen planning is one phase of design that is based directly on common sense rather than on any abstract technical theory. Studies and experiments by home economists have worked out saving of steps, placing of shelves and cupboards for average reach, and giving every foot of space a maximum utility value.

Learning by doing, these kitchen planners have found that work moves with the least effort when it flows naturally from (1) the food storage center—the refrigerator, to (2) the food preparation and cleaning center—the sink, to (3) the cooking and serving center—the range.

Adequate work surfaces and storage space in the form of cabinets between these centers increases efficiency.

With modern electrical equipment, the three work centers can be arranged in various basic patterns to suit individual preferences. But the preferable location for food storage, including both refrigerator and food freezing unit, is near the outside door to make easy the delivery and unloading of supplies. Likewise the cooking unit should be as convenient as practicable to the dining room door to make serving easy.

The exact layout of those facilities depends on size and shape of the kitchen and on the housewife's preference. The general scheme can be maintained in any kitchen plan.

In recent years the trend in kitchen size has been reversed. For a time this room was growing smaller under such excuses as step-saving, efficiency, and so on. But since the servant shortage and cost have taken on permanent aspects, and seldom-used dining rooms have been skidding into limbo, kitchens have started to grow again.

A modern "must" in equipment for this room in which the family spends so much time, is a ventilating fan. This gadget not only clears cooking smells from the house, but also saves drapes and walls from spreading grease smudges carried by smoke.

Another contrivance of growing popularity is the electric garbage disposer. This is connected to the kitchen sink, where all food waste including bones is flushed through this grinder into the drain. Old objections to using garbage disposal units in connection with septic tanks have been overcome by enlarging the size of such tanks to 75 gallons per person—or a 500-gallon capacity (which is greater).

Another tip: if you plan a complete electric sink, with both garbage disposer and electric dishwasher, individual 1½-inch taps should be used for each to prevent any backing up of sink waste into the dishwasher.

The modern electric kitchen also calls for separate electric power circuits. These will prevent the added load of equipment from causing lights to dim or flicker when appliances are started. An electric range and electric water heater also should have their own circuits.

Another factor that has been enlarging the size of kitchens has been the development of modern home laundry equipment. Laundry doors have moved up from the cellar—and in many cases cellars are being eliminated.

The result is that when a utility room is provided adjacent to the kitchen, it is made to serve multiple purposes including laundry, sewing room and even the seldom-opened food freezer unit.

Equipment for an up-to-date home laundry includes an automatic washer, a dryer, an ironer, a sink and a sorting table.

With this much activity centered in the kitchen area of the home, the location of the kitchen becomes important. Whenever possible, the northeast corner of a house proves the most attractive for this room. It captures the cheerful sunlight in the cool of the morning and is in the shade in the afternoon when the sun is at its hottest.

Keep House Cool In Summer By Blowing Out Heat With Fans

WHAT ATTIC FAN DOES

You can make your home comfortably cool this summer. That doesn't mean a complete air conditioning system, with ducts; that's not practical in most existing homes. But there are several simple things you can do to increase home comfort during the months ahead.

An unventilated attic may be a source of as much heat energy as the sun itself. Heat absorbed during the day is radiated down into the house at night.

Louvers at each end of the attic will allow heat to escape. There should be at least 35 square inches of opening for each 100 square feet of attic floor. A piece of wire mesh behind the louvers will keep out insects and leaves.

An attic fan of proper size is a good way to bring cool night air into your home. The fan pushes the hot air out of the attic, allowing cooler air to enter through downstairs doors and windows. Your local electric company or appliance dealer has information on the size of fan for your home.

The kitchen is another source of heat. An exhaust fan, either fitted directly into the window, or set into the wall and controlled with a pull chain or switch, will provide relief.

Direct sunshine on windows, which raises the temperature indoors, can be stopped with open-side awnings, which form no hot air pockets outside the window.

The color of outside walls can also affect the amount of inside heat. Dark outside walls absorb heat. Light outside walls reflect heat, making inside temperatures from 5 to 20 degrees cooler on hot days.

Good insulation in walls and ceilings will make at least a 15 degree difference in room temperatures by stopping penetration of heat and retarding extreme changes of indoor temperature. It also saves upwards of 30 per cent on your winter fuel bill.

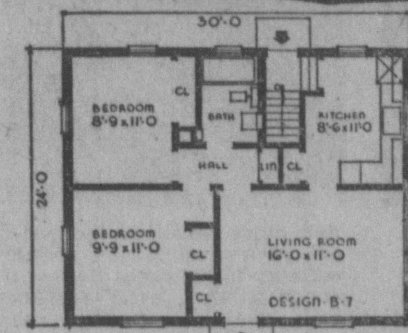

Condition of Air In Home Is Important

Building, buying or remodeling a home is a serious step to most people.

The factors of floor plans, construction, architecture and interior equipment are important to pleasant surroundings and comfortable living. The most important phase of planning indoor comfort, the condition of the air, however, is one often given the least consideration, simply because it is not a material thing which can be seen, according to air conditioning engineers.

They add that this is the one thing which is constantly with people in every room and has the greatest effect on health and comfort. The air is governed by seven conditions which indicate indoor comfort. They are: air at a satisfactory temperature; air containing proper amount of water vapor; air moving constantly but imperceptibly; air free of dust, dirt, smoke, pollen; air free of staleness; air free of germs and bacteria; and air of adequate density.

PLANS FOR BIG - LITTLE HOUSE

THE BORDEN might be called a "big little house". It has two bedrooms, a living room and a kitchen, located in an area of only 720 square feet. No space is wasted throughout this compact little house. The Borden's four rooms open on a hall only 3 feet by 7 feet. There is also an unusually large amount of closet space. Closets in The Borden are conveniently located.

There are generous wardrobes in each of The Borden's two bedrooms. The Borden's living room is provided with a handy coat closet. And there is also a linen closet in the hall. The Borden contains a full basement. Exterior walls of The Borden are constructed of 8-inch concrete blocks. They are lined on the inside and plastered on the outside. The Borden may also be constructed of frame with siding, if desired. The Borden's roof is covered with asphalt shingles.

The Borden's width is 30 feet. The depth of the Borden is 24 feet. There is an area of 720 square feet. The house has a volume of 14,184 cubic feet. For further information about THE BORDEN, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Modernize House And Alleviate Home Shortage

Greater emphasis should be placed on the need for modernization and repair of old dwellings as a means of alleviating the nation's housing shortage, many experts believe.

They point out that a majority of families needing homes cannot afford to build new ones. Rehabilitation of old homes can, in a great many instances, provide years of added service for dwellings which are now deteriorating. Thousands of such homes become unusable each year as a result of long periods of neglect. Through modernization and repair, the experts explain, the life of these houses can be prolonged considerably.

Rejuvenation of old dwellings can be a sound investment for the future too, authorities assert. They say that many modernized homes will prove more attractive to buyers and renters than houses built during the postwar shortage. This belief is based on the fact that the older homes usually are conveniently situated near schools, churches, shopping centers and transportation facilities.

With the modern building materials now available it is possible to spruce up a run-down house at moderate cost, provided it is structurally sound.

Three Ways To Speed Rental Housing Told

Construction of a larger quantity of privately built rental housing could be speeded in three ways, according to Melvin H. Baker, chairman of the Construction Industry Information Committee.

These are adoption of techniques for reducing the cost of building rental housing; adopting a plan for orderly elimination of rent controls; and the examining government tax policies to find ways of encouraging greater investment of capital in rental housing, he said.

Use Simple Roof Lines - Cheaper And Much Safer

A little extra investment is well worth the outlay when it comes to roofing a new home, experienced roofers point out. The roof is important not only because of its appearance but because of its essential function of providing protection from all kinds of weather.

A simple roof, with a minimum of hips, valley and intersections, naturally is more economical to put on than a "cut-up" one. The economy resulting from a simple design often will more than make up for the added cost of using high quality shingles. Simple roofs also are likely to be more efficient and watertight.

Besides providing protection against the weather, a good roof should be a safeguard against the fire hazards of chimney sparks and windborne embers. For that reason many communities require that roofs be covered with fire-resistant or fireproof roofings.

One of the most popular of fireproof roofings is the asbestos cement type. Made of two incombustible, inorganic substances—asbestos fibers and portland cement—nothing that will burn. Since additionally they will neither rot nor decay, they can be expected to last for the life of the house.

The head of a 91-year-old roofing company recently gave this advice to his fellow roofers in a trade magazine article: "My suggestion is to employ good materials. By doing so there would be no need for replacements as often as when the materials are of a cheap quality."

Since the average person building a home has had little opportunity to become familiar with the various roofing materials available, it will pay him to give the matter some study before making his selection. Manufacturers have prepared illustrated booklets and folders describing the variety and use of their products. These can be obtained from local dealers. The dealers frequently have roof sections on display in a variety of styles and colors.

Q—Is there any bird that makes no sound during flight?

A—One reason why owls are largely such enemies to birds is that their feathers are very soft, in fact, each one is edged with down, which makes it possible for them to fly in absolute silence.

YOUR DOORYARD GARDEN ACCENTS MODERN CHARM OF SMALL HOUSES

Small houses, like small gardens, possess charm, a quality which seems to evade larger and more pretentious creations. And nothing will enhance the charm of a small modern home so much as a dooryard garden, gay with flowers.

While all flowers are beautiful, and any combination of nature's colors will be harmonious, really stunning effects can be developed by planting colors which harmonize with the house and its trim. For a house of buff or cream color, for example, blue and white flowers will provide a delightful foreground.

In the illustration white and blue flowers are grown as borders to the path and along the foundation line of the house. No shrubs are used except small evergreens flanking the door, and these should be kept small by annual shearing. Of the flowers suggested, petunias should be started in a seed-box, in the house, or in a hot-bed or cold frame, since ninety to one hundred days are required to produce flowering plants.

Cynoglossum, the Chinese forget-me-not, and single asters will also bloom earlier, if given a start under protection before it is safe to move them to the garden. They can be sown outdoors, however, and will flower in sixty days. Sweet alyssum is easily grown from seed sown direct in the garden. A compact, dwarf variety should be used, and the plants will do better if thinned out to stand at least six inches apart. When plants begin to grow "leggy" and flowers to be fewer, they can be sheared like a hedge.

THEOLOGICAL PROBLEMS HALT INDIA MERGER

By STEVEN V. DAVID
NEW DELHI, India, May 10—(AP)—Who is the real ruler of the state of Travancore—the 27-year-old Maharaja, or the Hindu deity, Padmanabhan?

That question threatens to complicate a proposal by the government of India's states ministry to merge Travancore with the neighboring south Indian state of Cochin. The Maharaja has offered to abdicate if an answer can't be found.

The Maharaja maintains that the real ruler of Travancore is not he, but the Lord padmanabhan, to whom the state was dedicated in 1750. Thus, the Maharaja says, the proposal to make him the Rajpramukh (ruler) of the United States of Travancore and Cochin would place him constitutionally above the deity. He would rather abdicate than have that the Maharaja explains.

The proposal under consideration provides that the heads of Travancore and Cochin take five-year terms as Rajpramukh. Some observers suggest the Mahadaja's spiritual objections might be overcome if he were made the permanent ruler of the states and the title of Rajpramukh dropped.

Government sources here hope a solution will be found after the Maharaja has had further talks with his family and advisers. Some sources say that if he cannot overcome his spiritual problem, the United States of Travancore and Cochin may be administered by the central government.

An ancestor of the present Maharaja dedicated Travancore to Padmanabhan nearly 200 years ago to make his position more secure and to consolidate his dominions. He assumed temporal management as the vassal of the deity. The people dared not criticize the sovereign, since to have done so would have made them guilty of blaspheming the god.
